Roscommon Bucks Regional Champs

The Roscommon Bucks, with two big upsets in a row, joined 31 other survivors in the four classes of the Michigan High School state basketball tournament when they took home the regional trophy last Friday following their 67-64 conquest of Pine River here.

With the win, the Bucks move on to the quarter-final round at Cheboygan where they will take on another highly rated quintet, the Negaunee Minors, this Thursday night at 7:30.

The game Thursday will have double meaning for coach Jim Engelhard as he moves his Bucks along the tourney trail with the final stop in Ann Arbor.

It was a few years ago that Coach Engelhard proved himself as one of the finer athletes to come out of the UP — his school? Ishpeming — the sister city to Negaunee. There will be two incentives.

The Bucks, in their first jolt in the regionals came Tuesday when they sidetracked No. 2 rated Benzie Central which came into the contest with a 21-2 record, with a 60-59 heart-stopper.

Pine River won their chance to become Roscommon's second Goliath when they took the measure of Rogers City on Wednesday night, 77-71, to enter the finals with a 23-2 record against the underdog

County Forum on Social Services Set For March 31st

By Maureen McNamara, Crawford Co. Social Service Bd. Chairman-Local citizens who want a say in the priorities for services to be offered by the Department of Social Services statewide, beginning n October this year, are invited to a county forum scheduled for Wednesday, March 31st, from 1:00 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. at AuSagra Acres Senior Citizens Center.

The open meeting is a forerunner for statewide briefings to be held sometime in April at which legislators, advocacy organization representatives and State agency officials will be apprised of the results of deliberations at this forum and similar ones to be held in counties throughout the State.

At stake in all this planning is how the State will allocate money available for a wide variety of social services ranging from day care for children to transportation for senior citizens. Participants will be asked to indicate their priorities for social services from among those offered by the Department of Social Services. Summary information from the meeting will be forwarded to the Department's State Office for analysis.

James W. Keighley, Jr., Director of the Crawford County Department of Social Services, which is sponsoring the local meeting, says he hopes to hear from five key groups: current services recipients, service organizations, local government officials, public and private human service agencies, and other

Sheriff Dept. Has More Ears

ROY L. LOVELY - Deputy Crawford County Sheriff Department is shown above operating one of the new radios purchased by the Deputies, themselves, with the help of the Grayling State Bank, to prove communications within the Department

Crawford County is twenty-four miles square, 576 square miles with three communities, two expressways and thousands of miles of County and State highways, from densely populated subdivisions to isolated open and timber areas and a summer population reaching into the thousands.

Faced with an austerity budget, a rising crime rate and a transit criminal population, these are some of the problems faced by Crawford County Sheriff, Harold A. Hatfield. Better communications was not the whole answer, but a step in the right direction. The County made an application for a Grant to up-date present communication equipment. This application was turned down because of a lack of funds on the State

The officers of the department, knowing full well the danger involved in isolated areas, responded with the help of the Grayling State Bank, raised $6,800.00 at no cost to the County taxpayers for radio equipment. The equipment was installed in the officer's personal car by officers within the department who had a knowledge of radio installation. Sheriff Hatfield states that the radios have proved themselves many times

One example was a lone patrolman on M-72 who stopped a vehicle with a known armed suspect. A call for assistance was answered by a fellow off-duty officer returning from Kirtland Community College Installation of the radios has made possible the answering of officer assistance calls more efficient and timely, as well as assistance to stranded motorists.

Lamaze Childbirth Classes

A series of six Lamaze Childbirth classes will begin in the Grayling area the week of March 29th. Classes will be held on Tuesday or Thursday evenings depending upon the preferences of class members.

The Lamaze method is a physical, intellectual, and emotional preparation for childbirth. A couple trained in the Lamaze method is taught to understand the physiological processes in-volved in labor and delivery.

A woman is taught a series of exercises and special breathing techniques so that she can actively and effectively participate in the entire labor and delivery process.

In the Lamaze method of childbirth, the husband plays an active role. He must see that his wife is relaxed and doing the breathing exercises properly. He must be constantly ready to provide both physical support.

In summary, the Lamaze method provides a way to achieve delivery of a baby by a mother who is fully awake participating in the birth of her child.

Anyone interested in taking these classes should call Marilyn Rosi at 348-5189.

Friendly Visitor Program

Friendly Visitors remain an active part of the Senior Citizen program sponsored by the Crawford County Council on Aging. The program began over a year ago with twenty-eight volunteers calling on twenty-eight lonely persons. Of the original number, 10 remain active, but about 30 others have come into the program since

The only qualification for having a friendly visitor is a heart. Some persons having visitors are snut-ins. some are physically able, but have no family nearby and they all need a friend.

Visitors need only have the time, transportation and a warm and willing way about them.

Age does not matter and any person who is polite, pleasant kind, cheerful, understanding and who can smile could be friendly visitor.

It is a well known factor that babies deprived of individua love and attention often die This is also true of elderly persons. No one knocks on the door, the phone does not ring confinement - their only crime

Thirty-seven years ago public and private agencies joined forces to link these lonely persons with willing volunteers who want to be a friendly visitor. This is one of the functions of the Crawford County Council on Aging under the direction of Lora Gould. We have endeavored to link lonely persons and willing volunteers to make some of our senior citizens in Crawford County a little happier and more content.

There have been no spectacular events happening, but we know for sure that some persons have been made a lot happier and more secure. The things friendly visitors do for their lonely friends vary greatly. One visitor reads mail and writes letters; her friend is nearly blind. Another visitor sat with her friend while his wife shopped. Listening is a great service to those lonely friends who have no one to talk to all day.

Crawford County Council on Aging will introduce you to a lonely person. What you do with a friendship, thus begun, is up to you. Orientation for persons who would like to be a Friendly Visitor will be held on April 1st For more information call 348-9314

GRAYLING, MICHIGAN - THURSDAY, MARCH 18, 1976

From Our Corner...

We are back to one of those frustrating Monday nights when none of our thoughts seem to want to jell in order for us to pass on that wonderful wisdom you expect from our corner.

For those who happen on to our corner, and do not know us - we will let you in on a well known secret wisdom, no one expects from this corner.

With that taken care of let's just hit on a few side-bars, so we can take up our space and go horne and hope not to bore you.

† † † One of the biggest conversation pieces throughout our hamlet are the streets - not really the streets, but, the holes in them. Now we have lived in the north country just about all of our life, and we cannot remember a spring that did not bring holes in the

Our only suggestion is bear with it — think summer, and all will be forgotten.

For our two readers who are interested in T.J., we are happy to report the bigger boss ruled our kingdom over the weekend.

To Coach Jim Engelhard and your Roscommon Bucks — we know of only a few Grayling residents that are not behind you — from all the rest — our hopes are that you replace Bay City All-Saints.

† † An Idle Thought: If you couldn't understand the jibber-jabber you heard in the 10 seconds - possibly you may find their name and ad in the Avalanche.

The Bible Speaks

Service Act of 1975

Few pieces of legislation have caused such an uproar as HB 2966 and S626. Both sides have accused the other of lies, distortion and a host of unfortunate things. Now that the smoke is clearing, it is evident that the contradictions and vagueness of the bill itself are the causes of much of the confusion.

Dr. Rhoda L. Lorand Ph.D., is a Clinical Psychologist and associate professor in the graduate School of Education of Long Island University. Dr. Lorand made the following comments on the bill: "the bill is characterized by puzzling contradictions and vagueness. some of its provisions are based on misinformation, others re-flect the dangers inherent in having only the most fragmentary knowledge of the dynamics of the emotional - cognitive development of the child and its connection with the parent-child relationship."

Congressman John B. Conlan of Arizona has said of this bill.
"Proprietary day care centers would be highly restricted in providing services under the bill, tending to force small private day care centers out of The new system would by-pass state and local governments in such diverse services and activities 'as the Secretary of HEW deems appropriate, thus assuming at the Federal level parents' responsibilities for the care and development of children. The socialengineering aspects of the Child and Family Services Act include stipulations to: hire 'otherwise unemployed' persons for child-care programs; teach 'minority history' in child care centers; insure a 'full socioeconomic-mix in child groups while giving priority to the poor. Such a program would reduce the distinctive qualities of American children to create a homogenious mass, and give social scientists free rein with millions of children. In summary, this would: overlap extensive government services now available; unnecessarily deplete

by-pass state, local, and parental responsibility in child care; threaten existing church and other private child-care centers: and influence children with value systems which may seriously conflict with those of their parents."

Backers of the Child Family

Service Act are trying to assure us that the selection and direction of the program will remain under the control of parents. Now if this be true, which i strongly doubt, then the only new provision of The Child Family Service Act of 1975 is federal monies to pay the bill As it stands now, people who use day care service pay for it, but if this bill passes, all taxpayers will support the program whether they either agree with it or use it. And just like public education, those who wish to have an alternative must pay through the nose, once through taxes, and again through private tuition. Another similarity between public education and day care service under government leadership, they both started with a stress on being voluntary. This didn't last long with public education, and i believe day care service under HEW will become compulsory as the federal government becomes more socialistic.

Unless people write their leaders in Washington and stop this legislation, the door will be opened for behavioral scientists to implement a "technology of upon your children behavior" and grandchildren. If you think these are just the wild imagin-ations of a country preacher. please read some of our leading social scientists who are behaviorists like B. F. Skinner in his bestseller, "Beyond Freedom & Dignity". (adv.)

As the fire burns, air is drawn into the sealed chambers, super-heered, and by forced convection re-turned to the room. Forced convection is accomplished by a small, slient blower fan. Incited by British leaders, supplied with British arms and rewarded with British goods, Indians swept southward out of Detroit and across the Ohio Country during the revolution. wreaking havoc on frontier

Payment by the English for prisoners and scalps that were dragged back from these incur-sions embittered Americans and stirred up a great deal of controversy among governmen-tal leaders in Great Britain. But that didn't do much to reduce the suffering and bloodhsed that were products of the Indian

Americans called Lieutenant Governor Henry Hamilton of Detroit "The Hairbuyer," and in the British Parliament Lord Chalham demanded to know who is the man who has dared to authorize and to associate to our arms the tomahawk and scalping knife of the savage?"

On this side of the ocean
Edward Abbott, British lieutenant governor at Vincennes, complained to a superior that the Indians avoided conflict with armed men and attacked "poor inoffensive families who fly to the deserts to be out of trouble, and who are inhumane-ly butchered, sparing neither women or children.

While defenders of Hamilton contend that he had no choice but to reward the red men for scalps if he were to retain their service during the war, the prac-tice made him one of the most hated enemies of the colonists After he had been taken prisoner later in the war, Hamilton was accused by the council of Virginia of giving standing rewards for scalps but none for prisoners. This, the council said, "induced the Indians, after making their captives carry their baggage into the neighborhood of the fort, there to put them to death, and carry in their scalps to the governor, who welcomed their return and successes by a discharge of cannon." Hamilton was also known to begin with prayer his councils with the returning braves and then to congratulate them for the large numbers of prisoners and larger numbers of scalps that they brought. He reported to General Guy Carleton early in 1778 that Indians had brought to Detroit 73 prisoners and 129 scalps. Between May and September of that same year, he later wrote to Carleton, the warriors brought in 34 prisoners and 81 scalps.

In conversations between the British and Indians, Americans were regarded as meal — live meat, fresh meat or dry meat. Prisoners were live meat, Scalps were fresh meat or dry meat, depending on when they had been taken.

At a council in 1781 with Colonel Arent dePeyster, who was in charge at Detroit later in the war. Delaware chief Buckaginitas produced several scalps as was the custom at the be ginning of such sessions. He explained that his braves had not had an opportunity to confront the Americans recently and that he was presenting the commandant with some dried meat because "we could not have the face to appear before at another council that year, " am pleased to see what you call live meat, because I can speak to it and get information. Scalps serve to show me that you have seen the enemy, but they are of no use to me. I cannot speak with them.

Many of the prisoners were taken on to Quebec, while others were kept at Detroit where they were employed on projects such as construction of fortifications.

They were the lucky ones Many men. women and children of the frontier were killed during the Indian attacks. Others were murdered later because they slowed the red men's retreat. At Indian villages along the way. captured men often were tor tured by running the gauntlet or being burned at the stake. Women often became the wives children were frequently adopted by the tribes.

Kuralt sees different America

back roads and the byways of our country - America is not in quite as bad a condition as many of us might think it is on the surface of things.

What we see, of course, is what we use as the basis for our beliefs. And most of us know about America only what we read in the newapapers and magazines, or see on our TV screens, or hear about on our radios.

America is more than comes immediately to most minds, according to Charles Kuralt, CBS's man-about-America who travels the country with TV gear the way famed reporter Ernie Pyle used to travel the world with a typewriter.

"There is no longer the great silent majority," Kuralt recently wrote in a trade journal.

"I travel the back roads and the people I" meet want to talk about things," Kuralt said, noting that "journalism may be crisis-ridden, but the country is not."

Continued Kuralt: "The country I see on those motel television screens and on those front pages is not quite the country I see with by eyes and hear with my ears and feel in my bones."

The press, of course, including the electronic media, must bear the lion's share of the credit - or blame - for helping to paint the picture of America which most of us hold.

Kuralt points out — and properly so that the information industry's responsibility is a serious one.

'The First Amendment says we in the press have to be free," Kuralt writes. "Maybe, some day, we will also become wise.

"If that day ever comes, we may become more than garbage truck drivers to the nation. We may turn our attention to the decent, honest and sometimes noble lives of most of our fellow citizens and the worlds of our national life ... worlds we largely ignore in our fascination with the entertainer, the politician and the criminal."

Turning to another subject for a thought or two...

Michigan's new so-called political reform law is already in legal trouble. even before it officially takes effect.

The Michigan Supreme Court was asked for an advisory opinion on the legality of several parts of the new law, which covers - among its laundry list of reform attempts - such things as financial disclosure from candidates and office holders on local as well as state levels, certain restrictions on publishing information filed under the law, elements of public financing and gubernatorial campaigns, and many. many other provisions.

The Michigan Press Association and Michigan Association of Broadcasters have focused opposition on the section; that mandates secrecy when a sworn statement is filed under the new law.

Supporting various other attacks on the bill, either in part or in whole, are such organizations as the State Bar of Michigan, Michigan State Grange. Michigan Farm Bureau, State Chamber Commerce, State Building and Construction Trades Council, and statewide associations representing libraries, school boards, townships, counties, community colleges, public universities and county road interests.

In my opinion, the bill is a bad law to begin with, and should be repealed anyhow: it doesn't effectively reform anything, but overkills in a lot of areas which make it more difficult to serve in public office. And the public financing ? of political campaigns, either on the state or federal level, in my opinion is bad practice.

But the question comes to mind, in light of all the various elements attacking the law before the Supreme

If all these folks were opposed to the new law, how on earth did it ever get

Nixon liable to blab

Congressman Don Riegle said: "All Americans should be outraged at the tasteless behavior of former President Nixon for his obvious meddling in American foreign policy ... And what business does President Ford have in providing Secret Service protection to a crook like Nixon who is so shameless he still has not been man enough to say he is sorry to the American people? This is another $250,000 rip-off of the American people for a man who ought to be in jail instead of traveling the world with Secret Service protection."

Yeah, Reigle is to be complimented for his plain talk. You don't hear much of that in Congress. But still, he missed one important point. What about national security?

Everyone knows the Communists can't be trusted. Nixon himself said so for 30 years. That's how he won elections. The treacherous Commies are why 40,000 American youths died in Vietnam - to keep Red dominos from toppling into New Jersey

If it weren't for the Communists. there would be a lot of CIA plotters sitting around with no one to plot against. The U.S. must be ever vigilant to keep the dirty Reds from stealing our secrets. If we're not careful, they might learn there is no such state as New Hampshire. It is really a TV test laboratory for NBC's computers and Walter Cronkite's sincerity.

An American tourist goes to China FIED stamped on his jockey shorts? He used to say ssshhh when Pat told him it was Tuesday. As President he knew all the secrets because he made them. Is it wise for the U.S. to allow all that secret information to fly off in a Communist airliner, to picnic and gossip in the shade of the Great Wall?

After all, Richard Nixon is not just another retired civil servant. He didn't want to leave the White House but he got caught in the cookie jar, with the lid closed above him. He went on TV and lied to everyone, including the thousands of people who voted for him, all of whom have since died.

As Congressman Riegle pointed out, Nixon has never admitted any guilt or remorse. He thinks he was the innocent victim of a killer press and an undeniable propensity to sweat around the upper lip. He is bitter that he must fly all the way to China to hear

The Communists paid for Nixon's travel expenses and honored his gimpy leg with its own private ambulance. They treated him the same way he always treated himself - like a king. This had to be heady stuff after the seclusion of San Clemente and the humiliation of being called a crook on national TV several times a week.

What more would the Reds have to do to get Nixon to blab every U.S. secret he knows? Make Julie editor of Pravda?

Nixon's friendliness with the Communists is a risk to our national security. His passport should be lifted. In the name of Alger Hiss.

A friend of mine who read an article I wrote recently about who is responsible for closing school on snow days suggested I might use his explanation in the future. He replies to the same question by saying. "I don't close the school, God does. I just sit up all night ait for His Instructions."

I thought that rather than run the risk of losing all the people who read my article with another attack on the State financing (or lack of it), of education I'd attempt to bring a little levity to the column this week by passing along a few of the humorous anecdotes involving student quotes that I've accumulated over the

When a first grader was asked why the ugly troll wouldn't let the goats cross the bridge, he replied, you have to pay money to cross a troll bridge.

back, "get yourself a boyfriend." One of our teachers asked the class to draw a picture of what each would like to be when he or she grew up. Noticing that one of the boys sal for a long time staring at an empty paper, she asked if he didn't know what he'd like to be. "Sure I do," he replied, I want to be married but I don't know how to draw it."

One young boy was told by his teacher that one of the reasons he was on this earth was to help others. He countered by asking, what are the others here for?"

Several years ago when I was working as the high school principal. I had a girl come tearing into the office in an agitated frame of mind, yelling what sounded like, "fire, fire!" I asked her if she said "fire" and she nodded yes, too breathless and overwrought to speak anymore. I calmly walked over and pulled the fire alarm only to find out that she had been yelling "light". Although a little embarrassed about it, I guess I'd do it again and it certainly did break up the fight. We were due for a fire drill anyway

LEARN ABOUT SPINNING WHEEL—On Tuesday, March 8th, Mis Pat Tarrant was a guest speaker in Mrs. Larson's First Grade classroom. She informed us of the methods Colonists used in processing wool into yarn. We learned by first hand experience how to card the wool and use a drop spindle. We would like to thank Mr. Farrant for making a model spinning wheel so we could figure out how it operates. In the picture from left to right you see ... Renee Landsparger. PHYSICAL EDUCATION CLASS—The Elementary Schools have been working on stunts and tumbling skills in their Physical Education Class. This is to offer a child opportunities to manage their body effectively in a variety of situations. Coordination flexibility, and agility can be enhanced with a special emphasis or

The first grade program consists of simple, imitative walks and movements plus selected balance stunts and rolls. A few of these are: bear walk, jump turns, head balance, one-legged balance stands, cricket walk, rolling log, and the forward and backward rolls. In the second grade there is more emphasis on level of performance and skill development. Most of the activities deal more with stunts than in the strenuous tumbling activities. They will be working on leg balances, forward and backward rolls, frog jumps, heel slap, pogo stick, measuring worm, turk stand, seat circles, threepoint tip-up, and others.

The third graders have more couple and group stunts than in the previous grades. Form and quality of performance is much more important at this age. Their activities are forward and backward roll variations, frog handstand, heel stand. Russlan dance, squat thrust, walrus walk, coffee grinder, mule kick, curl-up, hip walk, long bridge, headstand, partner hopping, twister. partner pull-up, double top, and Chinese get-up. The fourth grade program continues emphasis on the forward and backward rolls with different variations and combinations. Partner support stunts are also introduced. Some other 4th grade stunts are: headstands. knee walks, knee jump to standing, knee drop, knee dip, balance jump, tanglefoot, egg roll, camel walk, double wheelbarrow, seat balance, centipede, hip shoulder stand, lighthouse stand, table and statue stands. Dad was a railroader, a dedicated one. The rails were his love as well as his life. To him the "Twentieth Century" wasn't a span of - it was "his train" rouring through the night.

Dad often took me to the train yards. He taught me that a railroader never steps on the rails. A "trackwalker" always walks the ties! This was no superstition - just respect for the "road."

There are other lessons to be learned . . . that involve reverence, respect and the footsteps of life . . . lessons that help us express in our simplest actions the things we believe in.

Learning those vital lessons every Sunday at church is even more fruitful than a trip to the train yards with Dad.

When's the last time you looked under your car? Or asked your service man to? Next time you change oil, and your car's on the rack, keep it up. At least long enough to check your exhaust system, shocks, wheel seals and the underall condition of your car. Most of the time you can spot trouble before it becomes a major repair bill.

And, if your service dealer displays the NAPA sign, you can be sure that any needed replacement parts are guaranteed to meet or exceed all manufacturers warranties. NAPA with a stock of over 90,000 part numbers is the brand you can trust.

Next time, to avoid costly upkeep, remember ... keep it up. With genuine NAPA parts and service.

Mr. Keighley says he hopes the additional lead time for planning this year will enable more citizens to have input as to how the money will be spent.

He explains that last year a very short time was available for planning between the time Congress passed Title XX of the Social Security Act and July, when a proposed plan for spending the money had to be completed and published by each State.
Participants at the county forum will be asked to indicate their priorities for social services from among those offered by the Department of Social Services. A summary of this information will be analyzed by the Department's State office and incorporated in a report which will be both available to the county and utilized to conduct the statewide briefings.

Dear Whitey.
According to the news reports and the political party practices, all the presidential primaries conducted in the United States will probably have no effect on who is nominated for President of the United States. Michigan is one state which has a presidential primary. Over half of the states do not have one.

When the legislature created the presidential primary in Michigan four years ago they did not provide for any state funding but after some pressure was applied, they decided to reimburse cities and townships for some of the cost. This year the legislature says there will be no state funding.

Because the primary does not elect or nominate anyone and it only shows the political parties whom the people who vote would like to see nominated but does not bind them to nominate anyone. I think it is a waste of our local tax money to conduct a presidential primary. I call on our elected city and township officials to decline to finance the primary with our tax money that can be spent much more to the benefit of the taxpayers and to notify the state that if it isn't state financed it won't be held in our county. If we do this. other counties will follow suit The day is long past that we should allow the state legislature to direct us to do things on a local level and to expect us to pay for them as well.

Sincerely Arthur R. Thayer
